9. After reviewing the proposed plan, I feel that the developer is trying to build significantly more apartment units than originally proposed in their initial pitch to the community. I believe the community was hoping for a gathering place with lots of retail and community green space. Now it looks like a bunch of large apartment buildings, with their own private space, and not a lot of retail or community space. It's going to look like shit as you drive into Shoreline from the south and the first thing you see in a bunch of large apartment buildings. Over 1,300 units...that is way too much! The traffic will be awful in that area. Where did the initial vision of a open, green, community space go? Please do your job and stop this atrocity from becoming a reality. We live in Shoreline and not Seattle for a reason. Thank you.

Thank you,
City of Shoreline
